

Are you highly proficient with STEM, GSuite for Education and/or Office 365 and other interactive classroom technologies?

Are you interested in traveling throughout the U.S. to deliver impactful professional learning experiences to other teachers?

Are you a K-12 classroom teacher with a minimum of five (5) years experience?

If you answered "yes" to all three questions above, then please continue.

Eduscape is committed to providing meaningful and purposeful professional development to classroom teachers and administrators across the country. Whether delivering a workshop, coaching and modeling, or presenting at a Google Summit or a Microsoft Teacher Academy; our Education Specialists are passionate about working with educators to achieve student outcomes with the proper application of technology. Make a difference and pay it forward, join us!

Our Learning Leaders are responsible for the delivery and development of workshops to teachers on topics centered around effective use of technology in the classroom. Workshop topics may include Google Apps Integration, Office 365, Office Web 2.0 Tools, One-to-one Success, Common Core Standards and STEM workshops. Delivery platform can be face-to-face, live via web and/or self-paced, asynchronous formats.

To be successful, Learning Leaders must be passionate about living the phrase "lifelong learner". You must be able to learn and apply new tools to advance learning outcomes for all learners, whether they are a teacher, a school leader, a student or adult learner. You must be a creatively curious person who seeks not only the right answer, but a better question. You must be able to tell a story, provide context and communicate in a myriad of ways.

The Learning Leader will be responsible for:

- Developing and delivering classroom technology integration professional development workshops for teachers and administrators
- Deliver content and present at workshops using varied presentation techniques including modeling, hands-on involvement, small-group, and large group settings.
- Participation in the design of instructional materials such as training aids, handouts, evaluation forms, and visual aids (and/or presentations)
- Work on collaborative projects
- Complete assigned projects (workshop proposals for schools, or creating special workshops/presentations for even
- The design and development of engaging, learner-centered e-learning

Skills Required:

- A degree from an accredited university in education, or related field
- Advanced or current pursuit of advanced degree preferred
- No less than five (5) years of K-12 classroom teaching experience
- Hands-on knowledge of classroom learning technologies
- 2+ years of experience developing and implementing professional development training; expertise in design and evaluation of professional development with proven outcomes. Developing curriculum and related materials and tools; inquiry-driven, project-based, constructivist learning
- Strong knowledge of lesson plan and curriculum development

- Experience with Google Apps and other web-based productivity platforms
- Excellent written and verbal communication skills
- Ability to present to groups of 15-25 people
- Flexibility to travel within the Continental United States
- Position requires travel 60-70% of the time
- Knowledge of Common Core State Standards
- Salary commensurate with experience

To Apply

You must submit a cover letter and resume to info@eduscape.com with a detailed summary of your technology experience and any related certifications; Google Certified, MIE, SmartBoard, etc. No resumes will be considered without this information. We are searching for candidates residing in the Greater NYC/NJ area but are also recruiting qualified candidates across the US who reside near a major airport and are able to work remotely.

